Presentation

Networking is made of rules and guidelines that PhDs have to know: it will help them to act in a coherent manner and be more effective in their job search. For each of their career steps and whatever their goal (defining new career options, thinking about a professional evolution inside or outside your company/institute), using their network professionally is a must if you want to increase your chances on the job market.

Goals

To be acquainted with the methods and the benefits of networking
To check the feasibility of achieving your professional objectives by networking

Methods and concepts

Knowing the rules of networking
Identifying the members of your network, developing and maintaining your network
Getting information from your network
